About Kidtest.com

Kidtest.com was founded by three partners—family members—who were struck by reports that the education of America's and Canada's youth has not kept pace with international standards and performance. The partners determined to develop an accurate, efficient and affordable educational assessment resource as a way of contributing to the solution. The three partners had a unique combination of knowledge and experience that helped them take on such a daunting venture. One was a professor at a major state university, the second was a professor at an Ivy League university and the third had run several successful business ventures for over 30 years as an entrepreneur. This combination of skills was critical.

Why Use Kidtest.com

Kidtest.com has made the use of this website simple. With little difficulty, you can help to maximize the benefit to your children by seeing to it they use all Kidtest.com has to offer.

Our Testing Program

Kidtest.com offers tests for children in the early grades through grade 12 and then scores these tests and ranks the child on a percentile scale. Kidtest.com's inventory includes tests based on national and state standards as well as tests developed especially for Kidtest.com by experienced educators know as the Kidtest Benchmarked Sequence.

Although, not the sole component in determining how well a child is doing or should be doing, testing is a very powerful tool. Kidtest.com will track your child's performance over time to help you oversee progress or lack of progress as you work with your child.

What Parents Are Saying

Here is what just one parent had to say about Kidtest.com:

"Love your site...great idea..I'll definitely be visiting often. As a parent and educator I cannot say enough how much I appreciated this site. My daughter who will be entering third grade in a matter of weeks took the age appropriate test and to my amazement enjoyed taking it! Much more than that though is the confidence it instilled in her as she enters her new grade.

Standardized tests, while having their place in schools, just does not give teachers an accurate assessment of what a child knows or more importantly can do. Your tests however, do both and thus give educators a better picture of the child's capabilities.

I have also found, instills confidence in children themselves and this is an invaluable gift which money cannot buy. When a child feels good about himself or herself then they can learn freely, risk making mistakes to learn and most of all find themselves eager to learn.

You have done a beautiful job in creating the perfect tests and as a mom and teacher, I thank you!" - LE
